“ My most sincere condolences to Amy's family. I haven't had the chance to meet most of you you but I knew Amy well - through high school and college. She was a good friend to me. Many have mentioned her infectious sense of humor, which she most certainly had. But what I remember most and admired in her were her loyalty as a friend and her unapologetic candor - she called it like she saw it- even when You know everyone else was thinking it but not saying a word. She had a real sense of what mattered. And all at a young age. Her life is truly a loss for all of us. Rest In Peace Amy. I love you and will remember you always.

“ Many of my memories of Amy start before Amy arrived, because she was so often late. And, an inordinate number of those memories include buttercream frosting.

One year Amy, Phil, and the boys were so late arriving at Loretta's house to celebrate Christmas that Loretta and I went to the movie, and we had such low blood sugar upon our return that we were a little crazy. As we were cutting the red velvet cake, to entertain Loretta, I licked the frosting off of my slice. Before it was cut. I don't think we ended up telling Amy what was so funny, but it's a memory of a great holiday with the Oleksy family, and one Loretta and I have laughed about it for more than a decade.

Another buttercream memory was a holiday celebrated with Loretta at Amy and Phil's house. I got to stir the frosting on the stove as Loretta and Amy discussed the recipe, a family heirloom. Amy was technically on time that holiday, because she'd been home all day. That frosting conversation, though, was a window into the way Amy valued family and tradition.

In these and other memories, for me, what was key was Amy's commitment to welcoming people in when they needed welcoming, her willingness to always join in the laughter, and the way she never made anyone feel like anything other than family. And, just how delicious that frosting was that I got to share with her so many times.

“ Phil, Garrett, and Conner,
There are no words to tell you just how sorry I am. My side of the family is so small now, and losing Amy so suddenly is just devastating. I'm sure you are all in shock and lost.

I wish I lived closer and could give you a hug and pay my respects to Amy. She always seemed so happy and always had a big smile on her face. Phil, I'm on Facebook and Loretta has my number. I've missed you and if you ever want to message or talk, I'm here for you.

Love, Jeanne

“ Phil/Garrett/Conner and Family: All of us in your "California Family" are praying for you all! No words can describe our sadness other than the happiness of knowing we'll all see her again in heaven! She's in good company with Jesus and our family who welcomed her there!

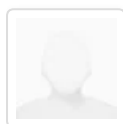

Amy was a wonderful person that I have known most of my life. We held hands ice skating in 3rd grade and when the lights went off, we were way 'cool' skating with our arms around each other! We would actually bring each other 'cards' we'd color and bring to the rink. A funny story you may or may not know... When we had our 20th high school reunion in Anderson, Amy and I had a blast with our name tags having the Oleksy name on them. People who lost track of Amy and I over the years were quite confused and we had a contest to see how many would ask us "are you guys married"? And she would say to them, "you'll have to go ask Chris" and I'd say "you'll have to go ask Amy". We lost count how many asked us.. it was crazy fun. What she did do, is tell folks that she married a 'better Oleksy'. And I couldn't disagree too much.. she married one of my favorite Oleksys who I've been very fond of! Phil, big hug from me!

We love you guys.. and until we see her again in Paradise, we will never forget Amy, "my long time friend.. and reunion wife"!
