“ When I think of Barb, I smile for she was a one-of-a-kind lady. About five years ago after one of the Sunday services at church, she walked up to me and said something like "I'm going to love you. I just want you to know that." And she did. Later on when the Lord added our son, Daniel, to our family, each Sunday she would stop by the nursery "to see her boy." She kept in touch with us after we moved to Virginia with her phone calls, and never missed Daniel's birthday or Christmas. She loved her family and her church. Barb was a prayer warrior, I knew I could count on her prayers. I'm going to miss that. She's always been so positive, never complained about anything, always so thankful and sweet.

I keep coming back to our last unfinished phone call just few weeks ago. We were laughing at the different things our ever-changing three year old says nowadays. Then Daniel woke up and I had to let her go.

Death leaves us with those unfinished conversations to be continued in glory. I will forever be thankful for the friendship she initiated. She taught me much and I praise the Lord for her life and legacy of love. The world is a better place because she was in it.
