“ What a sweet and kind neighbor. I didn't make time to visit you nearly enough. Thank you for the love you showed me over the years when I would see you outside. I'm sorry you lost your final battle with cancer, but I am glad to know you have no more sickness in you now. God bless your family, love always - Shannon from across the street! xoxo

“ My Mom was one of the strongest women I ever knew. She raised three children to turn out to be good people. She always made sure we had what we needed. I saw her go without many times so that her kids had enough. She protected us from everything she could and consoled us when we got beat up by life. She defeated lung cancer three times and was fighting hard to try this time. I am sure God welcomed her to heaven with a well done.
