“ It was my very first day at Arby's. I put the buns in the toaster upside down and the owner just kept pulling them out and throwing them in the trash. I had a severe headache when I left due to bun failure and first day stress. I drove over to Shelley's house only to find Mrs. Wellons out on the drive. She told me to have a seat and asked me what was wrong. I can't believe she didn't burst out laughing when I told her I kept putting the buns in the bun toaster upside down and had a terrible first night. She listened, calmed me down, told me not to worry that I would do better the next night and made me feel like I wasn't such a failure. Well I conquered the bun machine and by the end of the summer I got a .25/hour raise. Guess I wasn't such a failure after all. Thank you Mrs. Wellons.
