“ I like to think I was Dave's first friend in Anderson, when the Carrells moved to Anderson for a brief time across Woodlawn street from my family. Dave turned into a life-long friend, one of the most easy-going people I've ever known. After his move to Shady Lane, I remember with awe the collection of comedy albums Dave had, sitting in his room listening and laughing to Steve Martin and George Carlin, probably only getting half the humor, but funny all the same. Or how Dave turned me on to Johnny Carson, who we watched on my grandparents' black and white TV on a Spring Break once, and who I continued watching through Carson's career, always thinking of Dave. Dave just seemed to be tuned into good humor and comedy.

Most of my mischief with Dave included our buddy Craig, or with Curt and Clark, all filled with funny memories in the process of growing up, more or less. Thanks, Dave, for helping me remember to look for the humor in life; it's always there, somewhere.

“ David was my cousin. He was funny, kind and always up for an adventure— like trying to see if we could sneak out of Grandma’s house and get to McDonalds across the street. When he was little, he was fascinated by Sea Hunt on tv and the “ ‘moke man,” because of the bubbles I guess. Great guy, we’ll miss you!
