“Debbie had a vocabulary like you would not believe. I used to joke about how I wanted to memorize the dictionary just to try and out smart her. I could never figure out at such a young age how in the world she could know so many big words. I later learned in life, some people are just born with special gift and talents. She just seemed to absorb more of the english language than I.

She loved to sing.. When we were small. She was in our elementary talent show and sang in front of the entire school. She made up a little skit and dance with a song her and her best friend (Linda Wood), at that time would sing. You should have seen the standing ovation and cheering they received after the song. It was so amazing back then, she would have been a huge hit on U-tube today. Ha!

The loss of my sister was the most painful loss for me. I have had the hardest time talking about it. But I feel it is necessary to put these words out there, because I miss her more than anyone could ever know. My heart was broken, and my life was shattered losing her and Mom within a 3 month period. I know they are together and I will see them all soon one day. Life throws us so many curve balls. Losing both of them at the same time was one of the biggest curves my life had taken. I know they are watching over me and my family, and I can't wait to see them all again one day. Even though the years have slipped on by us. The pain and loss is still very close to my heart.

I sadly just learned of this and am so sorry for your loss, Lisa... Debbie and I were very close through school and have many fond memories of her lightning wit, and uncanny humor... she could always make you smile, no matter what was going on and am looking forward to seeing her in Heaven...
