I am a compassionate stranger, and wanted to pay my respects. I am sorry for this family's tragic loss, and the friends that enriched their lives. My heart goes out to you all, sincerely 🤍. I am writing from Sgt. Karch's memorial on Fort Benjamin Harrison. As I sat on the bench facing the road, I decided to look up my brother-in -arms. Ma'am, although neither you nor your grandson are amongst the living, I know Sgt. Karch lived a good life; albeit cut short--but for the honor of our great country and his family name. This is a beautiful, serene tribute! After reading about this soldier, I came across this obituary through the same Google search, and decided to pay respects to both of these brave people. You both fought a good fight in your own respects. Salute! Rest well. 🙏🤍🌀

“ I am sorry to read of your loss Norm. However, knowing the extent of her lengthy sickness, I am sure she is in a better place. You as the primary care giver deserve a medal along with any other care givers. It was my pleasure to finally meet her at Dan Hayden's celebration of life. May she R.I.P.
