“ I had the pleasure of working with Don a number of years when tax time rolled around. Was always good to just talk about life together. A good fine man.

“ I met Mr. Riggs 27 years ago when I was an 18 year old brat. His son Dustin and I were incoming freshman baseball players 8 hours away from home. As Dustin and I began formulating a lifelong friendship, I was able to see Mr. Riggs on several different occasions over the years. He was always genuine when asking me how I was, how my family was, how my career was, always welcoming me into his home. Those little things always meant a lot to me and I was fortunate to have known him. - Brian Cain
