“ I still cant believe your gone but I know im not alone feeling this way. You were a great friend and neighbor and will be missed far more than you could ever imagine. You were always just a phone call away if I needed you and the same went for you if you needed something. Fly high my friend until we meet again.

“ I’ll never forget our first conversation. I messaged you to tell you how impressed I was with Boogie’s manners after I met him playing with Skyler the first time. Your response was ‘I try’ and that you did. Who knew it would turn into what it was for a while.. well I did. You were the perfect mixture of sweetness, honesty (sometimes brutal but necessary honesty), friend, and protector. I always felt safe when you were with me and my kids- nothing in the world could effect us. You wouldn’t let it. There is a peace in that feeling that I can’t explain. It didn’t matter that we couldn’t quite make it work for us, we still cared deeply for each other and each other’s boys..we knew they all needed us. Thank you for showing Skyler what a father should be like to a son more than his own ever has or ever will in just the 2 short years we had with you. You left so many lasting impressions on so many people. I’ll miss your adult rated sense of humor- your huge arms around me and how you had to take a jab at me and Skyler when we couldn’t see or reach things that were too high up. ‘Oh yea. Short people. I forgot’ no you didn’t- you just liked saying that 🤔 We will never forget you. That’s impossible. Thank you for letting us be a part of your life.

I barely met you but you were an ever present part of my family through my children and grandchildren. I felt safe knowing that you were watching over my daughters. You were a mentor to my grandson Edge. Their hearts are broken to have lost you and I am so happy that you were in their lives. God bless your mother and wonderful son. Your love made him a great kid. You will never be forgotten.

“ My brother and I grew up with Erik. He was a great friend and we had lots of fun. From hanging out at his granny's house to playing with his mom's dog Hefty and going to different things with our mothers. He was always a person to talk to and just give a bear hug to if you needed it. We love and miss you Erik. Sorry we didn't get to Anderson to visit before this happened. Please watch down on your momma. She sure will need your presence around her at all times. You were her pride and joy.
