He wasn't retired from selling real estate. He sold a house just a couple months before in the hospital!

“ George gave all his kids the down payment on their houses then paid them off since only Brenda was there with Gary Collis and I at the end. He retired from Pendleton Reformatory and made his money buy real estate and that was the way that he was able to give the kids money not from his wife's pension he made sure that they had houses down payment paid way before she even died he made sure they had cars but now I never post that it is so sad that his funeral was not what he wanted to be but he is at peace now it was really sad at the funeral it's only people that cried with me and my best friend that got me the job volunteering for him Lori Reed with all our hearts we love you I miss you but you're better off not being in so much pain as how your family treated you.
