Jennifer C. Wolfe, 62, of Anderson, Indiana passed away on September 16, 2024, at Ball Memorial Hospital in Muncie, IN. She was born on May 23, 1962, in Lexington, Kentucky and later lived in Athens, Georgia, and Wyoming, Ohio with her late husband Daniel, and their two children.

Jennifer grew up in Lexington and graduated from Bryan Station High School (Class of 1980). She became a dedicated teacher, administrator, principal, and college professor with a specialty in autism and Deaf Education, in which she majored, earning a bachelor's degree at Eastern Kentucky University (Class of 1984), a master's degree at Western Maryland College (Class of 1988), and after some years active in the profession a doctorate in Special Education at the University of Cincinnati (Class of 2012). Her career brought her to Muncie, Indiana where she was hired and worked as a professor at Ball State University.

After retiring from teaching, Jennifer moved to Anderson, Indiana, and became affiliated with the Anderson Unity Church, where she pursued her passion for the spiritual life and made new friends.

Many who admired her accomplishments and dedication also took a lot of pleasure in Jennifer's lighter side, her love of sewing and crafting blankets, her abiding devotion to Princess Di, and her hilarious sense of humor, which lit up many rooms and many phone lines over the years.
