“ Words cannot explain how broken your children are and broken. I am human the world to the boys, and you meant the world to me. If only you would listen to me and came home like I asked you to just maybe you would be here with your boys and I, we love you dearly and we miss you so much even though we had our ups and downs you were the love of my life and I was urs A big part of me left with you that day I will never be the same, but I promise you I will do the best raise your kids the right way. Well try my best fly high and watch us always as we carry you close to our hearts every single day. 💔
