“ Today we will celebrate a life that was well lived and share memories of this young man who shared much joy no matter where he went. Our children are all different, bearing their own personalities and gifts, but each one contributes to our family unit in such a special way. Just a few weeks ago I took Mom with me to see Lance and Donna's home that they had purchased in Franklin, IN. As they gave us the tour through the home, Jordan was there in his bedroom and he took us a personal tour of it. Everything was pristine and one could tell that it was his room from the football memorabilia that was displayed. Upon our departure Lance, Donna and Jordan walked us to our vehicle and each one of us embraced the other and said I love you. I am so blessed to have had that visit and there is no room for regrets as we left on a good note. The lesson that I walked away from that experience is real to me today. Death knows no age and it can come when we least expect it so it is important when we leave one another's company that it is with a hug and the expression I LOVE YOU for it may be the last opportunity to share it again. To my brother Lance and his loving family I say Thank You for being a special part of my life.
