It makes all of us sad that we can't have you here with us, but we know you were just too special to have to face the harshness of this world! I can't wait to see you again. “ We want to express our sorrow for the loss of your baby but are confident that God has a special place for him. He will always be in your heart and pray that the Lord will comfort you in your time of grieving. We pray that you will feel his presense throughout the good and bad times as you share your lives together. We will also be praying that the good Lord will comfort you with other children when the time is right. Please accept our prayers and know that we also feel the loss for you of your son. With Love and prayers, Kenny and Brenda Holycross

“ Becky & Josh: Ian and I are thinking of you guys and will be praying for strength and healing from God. This is probably one of the toughest things you will ever experience. I know it is hard, but just remember to lean on each other and God and you will make it. Nana is holding that precious boy and watching over him until you guys get there. Until then, know that God is taking care of them both. Call me if you need anything. You know I am always there for you. I love you guys.
