“ I have experienced so much loss over the past few years it has almost become impossible to bear. Losing you breaks my heart beloved baby brother. I will miss your smile, your laughter, your unconditional love, and unrestrained honesty. You know how very much I loved you and wanted you to stay, but you were tired. I have to let you go now from my sight, but not my heart. I am most thankful for the last two years and having the opportunity to share so many things with you. I know you were tired, so I will try hard to be happy and not grieved. Just know, as you so often told me, you are my heart, brother. I will miss you so! I love you!
