“ Junior and Shirley were some of the first family members I met when Bob was thinking of bringing me into this family. We went to see Aunt Liehla as often as we could after we were married and lived in Indiana. We always had an interesting visit with Junior there.

“ When we were kids, my two younger brothers, Mike, Donna, and I had gotten into trouble. We were sitting on the floor, lined up under the living room window and he was lying on the couch with a yardstick bending it to make sure we behaved. He kept bending it tighter and tighter until it finally broke, we laughed which got us into more trouble.

“ There are people from my young life that I remember so well, and Jr. is one of them. His first wife, Shirley Siemer Ashby, was my sister-in-law's sister, and I was in elementary school when I knew him best. Over the years I haven't seen him much, but I always will remember his kindness to me as a child, and his love of his family. Sending my condolences to Donna and Mike and their families, and to Mary Ellen and her family. Harold and I will try to make it to the visitation on Thursday.
