“ My little family of two daughters, Rachel and Alissa Jackson, my former husband, David and I were neighbors of Pauline's and Mr.Mohler from 1973 to around 1979. Pauline would invite the girls and me into her home to watch through the glass oven door as cookies baked. We have found memories of Pauline as a thoughtful and kind neighbor. Rachel is now a pharmacist and Alissa is an optometrist. It takes a village to raise children. Pauline was part of that village which we treasure. As for me, as of this week, am a retired teacher from Anderson Community Schools. The girl's Daddy, David, and his family own a newspaper in Ludington, MI. He is the president. Thought you would like to know how Pauline touched the lives of many. You are in my prayers. Diana
