“ My deepest sympathy and prayers goes out to this wonderful family! Where do I begin. Eric and I have been friends for almost 20 years, he was such a great guy and would do anything for me! Years ago when Eric and I lived together we all stayed up one night drinking with my brother and cousin. I went on to bed and the boys continued drinking. They drank so much one of them got sick and Eric had this bright idea of vacuuming it up.....yuck!! The next day when I found out I had him try to clean the vacuum out, that was his punishment. But that didn't work out too well and we had to buy another one. Needless to say they never tried to do a quick clean up like that again Lol It's so hard to believe he's gone :(Rest In Heaven

“ Eric and I talked the weekend before when my septic system had trouble. We were texting, I was asking him for advice since he had worked at Royal Flush Plumbing when he said to call instead. When I called he said you know the story right? You know I don't have any real experience with septic systems. He said (cleaned up version) the 1st time they handed me a hose and told me to go down into one to suck it out I handed them back the hose, said screw you- looks like I'm walking home. Right now. lol that's Eric. He'll take a little bs at work, but he isn't climbing down into a hole to do it. Love you and miss you man.

Yes Charlie. Eric and I harassed each other on the CB's in our dump trucks. It helped us get through the work day. I will miss the big lug

I met Eric through the kids (I am Slade's aunt), and isn't that appropriate because Eric was all about the kids, the best dad ever, and a very giving, loving person. I know my family members felt Eric was part of the family. He was such a kind and giving guy. I am so sorry to the family, my condolences. What a great loss. Debbie Beracha.
