“ Scott was brilliant, our ship was sent for refresher training at GITMO straight from the shipyards, not a normal routine because no ship had ever passed on time ,, the ship does not leave until it passes ,,, Scott was the repair electrician for the final battle problem the ship must pass to leave on the final scheduled day,, GITMO staff is the best and most knowledgeable people the Navy had ,, they didn't want us to pass to break the tradition of it never to have been done , but they never ran into Scott Butterfield, during the drill toward the end ,, we were sitting in the dark , ship dead in the water , everybody thought well that's it , we failed ,, then the lights came back on , we got the ship moving again because of Scott,, he knew more about the switchboards on the ship than a host of senior enlisted people and officers from GITMO, he bypassed the generator circuit breaker that they didn't know it was capable of and saved us from staying down there 3 more weeks ,, on our way home 4 hours later , Scott was meritoriously advanced to Petty Officer 3rd class in an awards ceremony, ,, a captain of a Navy ship can do this once a year and Scott was chosen ,,, so many thanks my great friend ,, So long

“ I grew up next door to Scott.

Words will not make his family feel any better. I know.

Please know that I grieve with you.

I know he loved his daughter more than anything in this world. I know she is devastated. I grieve for her and with her.

“ Scotty, as I called him was a true friend in my childhood and high school days. I would have done anything for him and he for I. We were car guys and passionate about our cars in high school. We had some fun in Washington DC (we were drinking beer at a cool bar at the airport and grabbed a six pack and sat outside by some nice water fountain and just shot the bull). Scotty was telling me all about the NAVY. We took an airplane flight home and I bought a fifth of Crown Royal for the trip. When the airplane took off our fifth of Crown Royal slid ten rows of seats behind us on the airplane. Scotty got up and found that full bottle and I don't remember getting home. LOL! He was such a fun guy to be around and laugh with. His passing is really affecting me today. He was way too young for this to happen. GOD BLESS his family. R.I.P. brother from another mother. You were a super cool dude! I will always remember those Chevy II rides.
