“ When I think about the passing of my beloved aunt, my heart is heavy and also it's relieved. Relieved because I have watched my aunt go through some things in her life, that made me cry and watched how God brought her through it all. Also, my heart was heavy because I know how much she is loved and the fact that we will truly miss her on earth. Rest in Heaven! Aunt Louise .... I love you but God loves you more! and now you are with your sis... my beloved mommy! Amen!

“ My Grandmother is just special. I am not sure if I will ever know a love like hers. I am not sure if anyone will ever show me love like she showed me. As the tears fall I know that I truly have a a Angel that I know is watching over our family. No words can even describe the pain I feel right now. Heavy tears and heart.. I love you Grandmother and you will never be forgotten.

As her eldest daughter, my heart has been ripped from my chest. You always think that you have more time and at 72 I knew I would have more time, but God knew best. My mom, best friend will always live within me until I see her again. I have loved you from the first time I laid eyes on you as a child. Even more so now that you are gone.
