“ Steve and his brother Kurt were so dear to all of us that sat with them for many hours in college at the student union (the Talley) at Ball State. They were our older, wiser brothers. I remember Steve always being very kind-- even though he had a wicked sense of humor. He will be missed.

“ We will miss you and your wonderful spirit but our Lord has brought a great conversationalist into his embrace. There is that much more laughter in heaven tonight! Farewell and...Arghh!

“ Mr. Lortz,
It was you, my biggest cheerleader, who helped me navigate the violent seas of theological study. It was you, my single peer, with whom I found a military comrade, a political ally and a spirit-filled radical. It was you, my friend, who invited me into your world of laughter, compassion and family. Because of you, I have come to love your wife Elizabeth, your sister Nancy and Kitty Bob. Anchors aweigh my friend; fair weather and following seas. Until I get to the Heavenly Shores ,,,
Your friend,
Nicki

Thank you, Steve, for caring friendship. I will always remember how you read my chapters, giving very helpful suggestions. Especially when I was telling more of my story, you gave me most helpful feedback. I reworked my paragraphs. Your helpful criticism and affirmation meant so much. Echoes of Mercy, Whispers of Love was finally finished! Your time here seems too short, but I'm so thankful our paths crossed. My love and prayers are with you Elizabeth and Nancy. With Letha and Genevieve, all the family.

Thank you, Steve, for your patience and kindness to me when I was a loudmouth know-it-all who knew nothing. You, Kurt, and another guy were the only three people in Anderson who ever tried to understand what I was trying to say. I relished those evenings the four of us would travel from one nerdy venue to another, discussing the events of the day and even loftier notions.

Sadly, with your passing the "Fairlane Lectures" have now gone silent.

Anyone who spent time hanging around in the attic at the Lortz house will never forget how great those days were. The whole Lortz family shaped my life for the better and words cannot express how much I miss all of them. But the good times will never be forgotten.

I was so happy to see Steve and his wife, Elizabeth, when they came to visit our church, Circle of Friends Wesleyan, not so long ago. When he stood up and spoke during the sharing time, I recognized him from long, long ago. After the service we chatted about old times: his service on a navy submarine, his time as an art student at Anderson College. We laughed about the way he won a religious art contest back at AC. It was an abstract modern sculpture project he had already completed. He added gloves with nails through the palms to opposite sides of it and entered it into the contest. I heard that there was quite a bit of discussion among the judges as to the controversial nature of the sculpture, but he still won first place anyway.

Farewell to my childhood fishing buddy and lifelong good friend. It was always fun to be with Steve and our fathers on those early morning fishing odysseys, and it was a pleasure to spend time with all his family members through the years. To his family, we are sorry we could not be with you at the memorial service but please know we feel your loss, too, and our thoughts and prayers are with you.
