“ Tisha you will deeply missed. I know not only by myself, and my son but by the one that truly loved you Kyle. I came to know Tish through Kyle per he lives accross the street from me. I remember the night that we all got together at my house to play games. It was a fun time, and I wish you would have realized how dear you really were to all of us. My son and I will miss walking out to play in the front yard and you sitting on the stairs of Kyles apartment keeping an eye on precious the boxer, and smoking a cig. I wish now that I would have made it more known to you that if you needed someone to talk to I was there for you. I have not always had a wonderful nor perfect life as I do now, and I truly think I could have helped if you only would have opened your heart and feelings to me. I didn't ask an questions, and now I wish I would have because maybe if I did you would still be here with CJ, I, your family and espically Kyle. I still remember when Cj was first born, you and Kyle came over and you asked to hold CJ. I was like of course, and I knew one day when you were ready you would make a great mom. I know that you are now with GOd, and I also know that you will be watching out for those that loved you, and will miss you deeply. My prayers are also with you family on the loss of a wonderful and beautiful girl and espically with my best buddy Kyle. Love and miss ya girl!

“ I am totally shocked to learn Tish is gone. She was a wonderful person and very pleasant to be around. I wish we hadn't drifted apart. Although no matter how much time had passed between contacting each other she always welcomed the call or visit. I can't believe she is gone. I can't imagine what Kyle and her family must be going through. I knew she had problems, I just wish I could have helped her in some way. No matter how she felt she was always kind to me. It is hard to imagine that we will never see her again. Please know my heart is aching for all of you and you will be in my thoughts, always.
