“ Vic, Vance, Roger, The loss of a parent or spouse is an unfortunate part of the circle of life and one for which we are never prepared. At a time like this, mere words are empty and shallow, but your feelings of loss are felt by all that knew Ginny. The true measure of the value of a person's life is the impact they have had on others. Ginny was like a second mom to my brothers and me when we were growing up. I remember spending time at your house and how great Ginny was to us. She always made us feel welcome, gave advice when appropriate and generally watched over us as if we were part of her family. That is how I will remember her. Death is an inevitable goal as we make our way through this life. We can take consolation in the thought that death is but a narrow passage between the companionship of yesterday and look forward to the happy reunion of tomorrow. May god bless Ginny as she joins him in heaven and bless those that she leaves behind that loved her and will miss her.
