“ I remember as a young teen before pierced ears wearing clip on earrings and them sometimes pinching my ears , aunt Virginia told me she could help and she adjusted to clip someway without breaking the earrings . She was my hero and every trip to Anderson I would haul a pair or two so she could adjust them. She never complained. When she was pregnant for my cousin Donna what a hero she really became when closing their shop and was a victim of a robbery and shooting and survived I remember when she talked about the events of that horrible incident how she worried not for herself but her unborn child and she curled in a ball to Help prevent the culprit from kicking her belly She was shot ,survived and lived her life not becoming a victim. I still have an afghan that she crochet for me treasured even more today
