“ I just learned of Bill's passing today. Bill was an inspiration that impacted my life. Ten years younger than my father, Bill was one of the few dads I knew that played with his children, and I benefited from that. Basketball, cards, board games. He also had travelled and read. I recall talking about places he had been and wanted to go. He questioned me about my plans and helped me form my life values. He had a full life that appears to be full of grandchildren that I bet he played with.

A warm, positive man that was 'chill' decades before the term was invented.
