“ Bill will be missed.. Some of the earliest memories I have in my life are of sitting with Bill and Joyce at their home. Bill would always share freely his memories of WWII and I am thankful for that because it gave me a much greater appreciation for the freedoms we enjoy today. Those of his generation gave more to us than any other. Growing up as a neighbor of Bill & Joyce could not have been any better for me. Anyone who knew Bill knows that he always had a little kid inside of him. Now he is that little kid again, full of life and energy, safe in God's good care. Thank you Bill, for caring enough to spend time with a little boy who one day grew up to be a better man because of you. In fond memory, Tim Stickler
